Social Identity Theory Simply Psychology

1. the differences between groups. 2. the similarities of things in the same group. We categorize people in the same way. We see the group to which we belong (the in-group) as being different from the others (the out-group), and members of the same group as being more similar than they are. Social categorization is one explanation for prejudice attitudes (i.e. them and us mentality) which leads to in-groups and out-groups.
